PREFACE.

This catalogue contains a description of the entire and extensive collection of Thomas Warner, Esq., of Cohocton, Steuben Co., N. Y.; a gentleman who has been an ardent and persistent collector from boyhood, and has found it a pleasure and source of instruction to collect in all branches and series. His ardor has not diminished up to the present time, he having recently added several fine and rare pieces.

Mr. Warner was born Jan. 28th, 1831, in Buckland, Franklin Co., Mass., but has resided for many years in Cohocton, N. Y., and has become engaged in large business enterprises in Elmira, causing him to be frequently absent from home, which is the reason for disposing of his cabinet. It is one of the largest that has been offered in America, and the pieces of interest, rarity, or superior condition are too numerous to mention here. All are to be sold to the highest bidder.

We have arranged the collection in chronological order throughout, giving the periods or dates so as to make as far as possible a continuous history of the art of coinage, from the earliest period to the present time, as exemplified by the specimens in this collection.

Collectors will find this an excellent opportunity to purchase modern coins of the various countries to complete their series.

We have endeavored to give a lucid and correct description of the pieces, and to picture them as they appear to us, with what success in our former efforts is perhaps best shown by the results of the sale of the Bushnell and other collections, where our honest efforts were appreciated, and we sincerely thank collectors and dealers for their liberal support which we hope they will continue at this sale.

We have used the utmost care to mark by parentheses the missing letters in inscriptions. In the series of Ancient Coins, it should be remembered that of many, entire inscriptions on one specimen are unobtainable.

The plates are printed in colors approaching those of the metals in which the coins are struck, and we hope they will prove acceptable to the subscribers. The paper was made to order.

Collectors are requested to send their bids some time in advance of the sale as there are frequently questions, etc., which they wish answered.

Further information concerning any of the pieces will be cheerfully given.

We guarantee all the Coins and Medals genuine unless otherwise stated.

The sizes given are by sixteenths of an inch, a scale of which will be found on the last page.

Catalogues can be obtained from, and bids will be faithfully executed by all the regular dealers and ourselves.

Price of this catalogue, 50 cents.

Same catalogue, with price-list, to be sent after the sale, $1.00.

Same catalogue, with 12 beautiful plates and price-list, $5.00.

Very respectfully,

S. H. & H. CHAPMAN,

Numismatists and Antiquaries.

6 Sybaris. Same. Drachm. Inscription in exg. Good.

The Sybarites were defeated by the Crotonians, who destroyed their city by turning the river Crathis upon it, B.C. 510. In B.C. 443 the remaining Sybarites, with colonists mostly Athenians, restored the city under the name of Thurium, or used also the original name of which we here have evidence, and this dispute over the name may have been one of the causes which led to the expulsion of the Sybarites by the other inhabitants. Thurium became one of the largest and most powerful of the Greek cities in Italy, and was able to bring 14,000 foot soldiers and 1000 horse into the field against the Lucanians; but it did not reach the power and wealth which it possessed during the first epoch, when the city was six miles in circumference, possessed besides twenty-five towns, and was capable of bringing 300,000 men into the field, and the name was the synonym for wealth and luxury.

It was taken by the Romans during the Second Punic War, and after the close, in 202, became a Roman city.

7 Sybaris or Thurium. Fine Art. Head of Pallas to r. with Athenian helmet. Rev. Bull standing to r. in the manner of the previous coins; in exergue, ΣΥΒΑ. Diobolus. Size 8. Very fine.

ITALIAN MEDALS.

THE CARRARA MEDALS.

467 At the request of Mr. Warner, we republish the article on "The Carrara Medals, with notices of the Dukes of Padua, etc., by W. T. R. Marvin, privately printed, 1880," which was a revision of his article in the A. Journal of Numismatics, for January, 1880, and illustrated with one plate made from the present specimens, therein described.

The medals are nine in number, cast in bronze and in very fine condition. Sold as a set at so much each piece. In the opinion of Mr. Gaston L. Feuardent of N. Y., and ourselves, they are reproductions and not originals. The originals were produced by casting and then finished by chasing, and are extremely rare.

"The Carrara Medals have always been regarded with a peculiar interest by collectors, and there are probably but very few complete sets in American cabinets The illustrations which accompany this paper were made from a series in the collection of Mr. Thomas Warner, of Cohocton, N. Y., though the limits of the page make it necessary to reduce the apparent size of the pieces. The originals measure from 44 to 46 nearly, American scale. They were probably struck in the early part of the fifteenth century, and while the artist who cut them is not certainly known, they have generally been attributed to Marco Sesto. By some numismatics they are believed to have been cast, and then carefully finished by tooling. However this may be, they are among the earliest productions of the Renaissance in Italy, and possess an interest of their own for that reason, aside from their historic value. They are classed among the so-called 'restored Medals' by Bolzenthal, who says 'many of them are thought to have been caused to be struck in the sixteenth century, by the Papafava family, which sprang from the house of Carrara.'*

* See American Journal of Numismatics, Vol. XIII., p. 4.

Although bearing various dates, they were doubtless all struck about the same time—probably by some descendant of the family, and perhaps by order of Marsiglio, the son of the last duke of his name, Francis II.—to commemorate the fame and unhappy fortunes of his ancestors. The legends on the Medals were kindly sent me by Mr. Warner.

The family whose principal members they commemorate, were prominent in the quarrels which form so large a part of the history of the petty republics and cities of Italy, and first acquired power in the early part of the fourteenth century. In the long continued strife between the Guelphs and Ghibellines, they generally espoused the side of the former; and though the distinctive grounds of their dispute had long passed away, the old names continued to be used through the times of the earlier Dukes of Padua, which was the title borne by the Carraras. With the powerful family of the Visconti they were by turns friends and foes, and from their enmity and that of Venice, at last received a final blow from which they never recovered.

For most of the facts relating to their history I am indebted to Hoefer's 'Nouvelle Biographie Universelle,' and to the Cyclopedia of Pierre Larousse. For accounts of the quarrels in which they were engaged, see also Sismondi's Histoire des Republique Italiennes, and Daru's Histoire de la Republique de Venise.

GIACOMO—IL GRANDE.

Obv. Bust to right, draped; an oriental cap tied under the chin. IACOBVS GRANDIS DE CARRARIA . I . PATAVII . D . AN . MCCCXVIII. Rev. The arms of the Carrara family; the helmet, which has the visor closed, is facing, and bears a crest, similar to the device on the arms, from which fall, on either side of the shield, branches of ivy (?) . OBIIT ANN . DO . MCCC . XXIIII . Size 45. (Figure 1.)

Giacomo or James, first Duke of Padua, is considered the founder of his family: having overturned the magistracy of the city, he proclaimed himself Duke, in 1318, and the title was confirmed to his successors by treaty in 1338. Another James, just a century before, had, with Azzo of Este, unsuccessfully attacked the city. He was in some sense a vassal of Frederic, Duke of Austria, from whom he received aid against his life-long rival, Cane de la Scala, Duke of Verona. He died Nov. 21, 1324.

NICOLO.

Obv. Bust to left, wearing a banded turban and a closed vest. NICOLAVS DE CARRARIA . II . TERRITORII . PAT . D . AN . MDCCCXXIIII. Rev. Arms somewhat similar to the preceding: the helmet and shield partly concealed by drapery, opened and turned back, along the border of which is a chain, and the crest, which resembles the charges on the arms, is placed between two horns. OBIT . ANNO . DO . MCCCXXVI . Size 44. (Figure 2.)

This nobleman was a brother of the preceding, and for a time reigned jointly with Marsiglio, though represented on the Medal as governing the territory, not the city. He finally quarrelled with the latter, because of the oppressions of some German allies of Nicolo's, and was dethroned.

MARSIGLIO.

Obv. Bust to right in flowing cowl; the vest buttoned on the shoulder. MARSILIVS MAIOR DE CAR . II . PAT . D . ANN . MCCC . XXIIII . Rev. Arms covered with ivy, the shield and helmet similar to the preceding; the latter has a bear above it as a crest. The drooping leaves around it are laden with flowers, similar to the device on the arms. OBIIT . ANN . MCCCXXXVIII . DIE . XXI . MARTII . Size 44. (Figure 3.)

Marsiglio was the nephew of Giacomo. Having made an enemy of his uncle Nicolo, as already mentioned, he sought a reconciliation with Cane de la Scala, and finally transferred to him the sovereignty of Padua. Some time after, he quarrelled with Albert, the son of Cane, and threw himself into the arms of the Venetians and Florentines, who enabled him to regain his power August 7, 1337. He was killed March 21, 1338, as appears on the Medal, though according to other authorities the date is given as September 22

UBERTINO.

Obv. Bust facing left, the head covered with flowing drapery; the vest closed, with high collar buttoned on the side of the throat. VBERTINVS DE CHARRARIA TERCIVS . D . PADVAE . Rev. Arms similar to the last, with helmet and shield partly covered with drapery, but instead of the crest and horns, a winged bust with satyr-head, having goat's horns and ears. UBIIT . ANN . MCCCXLV . DIE . XXVIIII . MARTII . Size 44. (Figure 4.)

Ubertino was a nephew (one authority says he was a distant cousin) of Marsiglio, whom he succeeded, and was distinguished only for his cruelties and debaucheries. His claims were recognized by Marsiglio de la Scala, to whose family his uncle had transferred the Seignory of Padua, and the sovereignty of the city was restored to him, thereby greatly offending Venice.

MARSIGLIETTO.

Obv. Bust three-quarters facing to right; the top of the head bare, with drapery at the side fastened by a band across the forehead, the vest closely buttoned at the throat. MARSILIETVS PAPAFAVA DE CAR . IIII . PAT . D . ANN . MCCCXLV. Rev. Arms, with helmet and shield draped with leaves as on I. and III.: the crest is a bear. The shield is quartered, having the Carrara arms in 1 and 4, and a lion rampant in 2 and 3. INTERFECT . AN MCCCXLV . DIE . VI . MAII. Size 44. (Figure 5.)

Papafava was the family name, but was seldom used Marsiglietto is said by some to have been a descendant of a collateral branch. His reign lasted but a few weeks, and he was assassinated by Giacomo (son of Nicolo).

GIACOMO—IL MINORE.

Obv. Bust to left in a draped hood. IACOBVS MINOR DE CARR . V . PATAVII . D . ANN . M . CCC . XLV. Rev. Arms similar to I., having leaves falling on either side, as on that, but a different crest above the helmet. . INTERFECT . ANN . MCCCL . DIE XVIIII IVL . Size 45. (Figure 6.)

Giacomo the Second succeeded in preserving the secret of his kinsman's death, until he had secured the seals of office and the fortresses of the territory; he then claimed the sovereignty as his of right, and was proclaimed Duke by the people. He is said to have shown greater wisdom and moderation than any of his predecessors, but was finally assassinated by an illegitimate son of one of his uncles, whose excesses he was striving to repress.

GIACOMINO.

Obv. Bust to right, in a draped hood. IACOBINVS DE CARR . VI . PATAVII . DO . ANNO . M . CCCL. Rev. Arms as on the preceding, but a still different crest. The arms, helmet and foliage of this and the preceding are more nearly like those on I. in general style, having few, if any, blossoms in the foliage. OBIIT ANN . MCCC . LVII . Size 45. (Figure 7.)

Giacomino (or Jacopino, as the name is sometimes spelled) was a brother of the preceding Duke, whom he succeeded jointly with Francesco, the son of Giacomo II. After five years of perfect harmony between them, the latter discovered that his uncle was plotting his destruction, and dethroned and imprisoned him in 1355.

FRANCESCO I.

Obv. Naked bust to right, the head bare and showing to the waist. FRANCISCVS . SENIOR . DE . CARRARIA . D . PAD . Rev. Head of satyr-winged bust to left, with flowing drapery, enclosing the shield with the family device, and MEMO on a scroll, and an ox kneeling below; II II in the field on each side. QVI . SVM . CIVI . BENI . REXIT . AN . XXXVII . M . VIIII . D . V . Size 45. (Figure 8.)

Francesco I. reigned, as mentioned above, for five years conjointly with his uncle Giacomino, and alone, after 1355. In 1354 he commanded the army of the Lombard League. In his wars with the Visconti he met with various successes and reverses, finally arousing the enmity of the Republic of Venice, on account of the aid he rendered to Louis of Hungary, who invaded their territory, as a result of which he was compelled to accept a humiliating peace. Soon after he allied himself with the Genoese and the King of Hungary, and took part in the war of Chiozza (1378-81), which brought Venice to the brink of ruin. In the year 1388 that city formed an alliance with the Visconti, the Marquis of Ferrara, and the Lord of Mantua, against him. His city was attacked and captured May 19, 1388, and by the perfidy of Giovanni Galeazzo Visconti, he was despoiled of all his possessions, which he had greatly enlarged, and confined in the castle of Como, where he died October 16, 1393.

FRANCESCO II.

Obv. Draped bust to left, the head bare. FRANCISCVS IVNIOR DE CARR . VIII . PATAVII . D . ANN . MCCCXC . Rev. Satyr-like figure as on the preceding enclosing the Carrara arms, below which is a quartered globe, surmounted by a scroll, on which LEVXANZA. DIE XIX IAN . NECAT . AN . MCCCCVI . Size 45. (Figure 9.)

Francis II. was the son of Francis I. After his father's overthrow he traveled extensively through Northern Italy and Germany, forming alliances by which he regained Padua in June, 1390. After a war of two years he obliged his enemies to acknowledge his claims, and he restored for a short period the power of his family. Having invaded Verona in 1404, he was attacked by Venice, losing his city October 21, 1405. Taken captive with his children, he was imprisoned at Venice, and there assassinated by order of the Council of Ten, January 19, 1406. Some authorities say that he was strangled: the word NECATUS may be taken to imply that the manner of his death was a disgrace to those who caused it. One of his sons, Marsiglio, vainly endeavored to regain Padua, but at last perished on the scaffold, and with him ended the ducal house of Carrara, though collateral branches bearing the family name of Papavava, still survive. I have followed the dates on the Medals in preference to those given by the authorities from which the historical notes are compiled, as seeming to have the greater probability of accuracy. The death of Francesco II. for instance is given by Woodward & Gates, Encyclopedia of Chronology, as February 17, 1406. The true date was very likely kept secret, as the 'Council of Ten' surrounded all their acts with mystery."

CENTS.

2981 1793. Chain. Head of Liberty, with short flowing hair, to r.; LIBERTY above; beneath, 1793; date wide. Rev. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA; fifteen links joined, enclosing ONE CENT $\frac{1}{100}$. Edge, slender vine with flowers and leaves alternating with milling. Extremely fine, only most prominent part of head and chain touched by cabinet friction. Planchet on the reverse not entirely smooth before the piece was struck, otherwise, smooth, brilliant surface; very small dent just back of the mouth. Rich brown color. Sharp and evenly struck, showing the minute lines of the hair. Extremely rare. See plate XI.

2982 1793. Chain. Head of Liberty to r., with long flowing hair, and forehead in a straight line with nose; date close. Rev. Same as last. The surface very slightly oxidized; also a few minute nicks on obv. Extremely fine. Olive-brown color. Extremely rare. See plate XI.

2983 1793. Chain. Small head of Liberty to r., period after LIBERTY, and date. Rev. As above. Very good. Rare.

2984 1793. Wreath. Large head of Liberty to r., hair in thick locks, stem with three large leaves, between bust and date; LIBERTY, and 1793 large. Rev. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. Two laurel branches enclosing ONE CENT, beneath $\frac{1}{100}$. Edge as above. Surface slightly oxidized. Dark steel color. Very fine. Very rare. See plate XI.

2985 1793. Wreath. Head of liberty to r.; LIBERTY and date small; a twig with 3 small leaves between date and bust. Rev. Similar, but a variety. Edge same. Very good. Rare.

2986 1793. Liberty cap. Head of Liberty to r.; hair bound with a fillet; behind the head, staff of liberty, with cap; above, LIBERTY; beneath, 1793. Rev. Similar to last. Edge lettered, ONE HUNDRED FOR A DOLLAR. Dark steel color. Fine, strong impression. Extremely rare. See plate. Collectors do not seem to be fully aware of the rarity of 1793 Liberty cap cents, which in reality are one of the rarest of the U. S. copper series.

2987 1793. Liberty cap. Variety; a crack (just perceptible) starting from forehead, passes through the Y. Reverse same as last. Edge lettered. Very good. Very rare.

2988 1794. Small head of Liberty to r., with flowing hair, staff of liberty; same design as last, and edge lettered. Strong even impression. Brown color. Extremely fine. Rare. See plate.

2999 1794. Large head of Liberty to r. Uncirculated. Sharp, bold, perfect, even impression, with deep serratures on obv. and rev. Light olive color. A superb and beautiful specimen. Would be an embellishment to the finest cabinet. One of, if not the finest and most beautiful cent of this year we have seen. Extremely rare in such preservation. See plate XI.

3000 1794. A very similar die to last, but the last end of hair terminates in one lock, date does not touch hair or bust, triangular flake out of die in field back of the head. Rev. Also from a different die, the wreath slender, and dividing line short. Sharp even impression. Steel color, and extremely fine. Cost $11.

3001 1794. Different die to preceding. Fine.

3002 1794. Different die, locks of hair short. Fine.

3003 1795. Thick planchet, lettered edge; design same as 1794. Obv. Shows marks of corrosion. Fine. Brown color. Rare. Plate.

3004 1795. Thin planchet, plain edge. Rev. ONE CENT high in wreath. G.

3005 1796. Liberty cap, design as preceding. 6 in date far from bust, but strong and perfect which is unusual. Even impression with serratures all around both obv. and rev. A very fine cent. Rare. Cost $15.50 at Merritt sale. See plate XI.

3007 1797. Uncirculated. Weak. Light olive. Very rare. One of the Nichols hoard. Plate.

3008 1798. Small date. Uncirculated. Sharp, even impression. Steel color. Rare. Plate.

3009 1799. Very good. Rev. Fine. Even impression, and with smooth surface. Dark olive color. Extremely rare. See plate.

3010 1800. Erroneous die, caused by the die-sinker forgetting the change in the century; figure 7 shows distinctly under the 8. Extremely fine. Slight traces of original color. Very rare.

3011 1800. Perfect date. Extremely fine, field in front of bust scratched. Rev. Oxidized in centre, otherwise light olive. Plate.

3012 1801. Uncirculated. A much stronger impression than usual. Rev. Perfect $\frac{1}{100}$. Steel color. Very rare. See plate.

3013 1801. Extremely fine. Strong, bold impression. Rev. $\frac{1}{100}$ over $\frac{1}{000}$ Steel color. Very rare in such condition. Plate.

3014 1801. Very good. Rev. $\frac{1}{000}$.

3015 1802. Uncirculated. Sharp, beautiful impression. Rev. Without stems below the bow. Bright red changing to light olive. This variety in such condition is very rare. See plate. Cost $15 at Merritt's sale.

3016 1802. Extremely fine. Sharp even impression. Rev. Stems to wreath. Steel color.

3017 1803. Extremely fine. Sharp impression. Light olive. Rare thus. Plate.

3018 1804. Good. Very rare.

3019 1805. Fine. Light olive. Scarce. Plate.

3021 1807 over 1806. Fine. Rev. Extremely fine. Light olive. Rare.

3022 1807. Perfect date. Very fine. Stained and some corrosion adhering to it.

3023 1808. Bust of Liberty to l., the hair bound with a band bearing LIBERTY, 13 stars, 7 in front and 6 behind the bust, date beneath. Rev. A garland of laurel enclosing ONE CENT. This is the type from 1808 to 1814. 12 stars (so-called). Very fine. Brown-steel color. Very rare so fine. From Merritt sale, cost $6. Plate XI.

3024 1808. 13 stars. Extremely fine, showing but the slightest marks of cabinet friction, bold impression, all the stars showing centre lines, those in front of bust a little sharper than the others. Rev. Sharp and even. Beautiful light olive and one of the finest cents of this date that has been offered for some years. Excessively rare. See plate XI.

3025 1809. Uncirculated. Bold impression, head and date very sharp, as also the rev. 5 of the stars in front of face do not show centre lines. Evenly centred, with milling. Light olive. An unusually fine specimen. Extremely rare. See plate.

3026 1810. Perfect date. Very good.

3027 1811. Perfect date. Uncirculated, without the slightest mark. Head very sharp, and while the stars show centre lines, they are not as sharp as could be wished for. Rev. Sharp and perfect. Beautiful steel color, and extremely rare. See plate. From Merritt sale, $28.

3028 1812. Closed-mouth variety. Uncirculated. A perfect match to last number, and in same condition. Red, changing to steel color. Well centred. Very rare. See plate. From Merritt sale, $10.50.

3029 1812. Open-mouth variety. Uncirculated. Even impression. Olive color, and a rarer variety than last.
